

STEIGER DYNAMICS Offers Latest Generation Intel Ivy Bridge-E Four- and Six-Core CPUs on their Reference Line LEET HTPCs

LOS ANGELES, CA – STEIGER DYNAMICS, award-winning manufacturer of custom Gaming Home Theater PCs, announced today the addition of the latest “Ivy Bridge-E” Intel Core i7 processors to their lineup of performance Home Theater PCs, giving both PC gamers and creative professionals the extra power they need.

The latest generation Intel Core i7 processors are available in three powerful CPU solutions – the quad-core i7-4820K, the six-core i7-4930K, and the six-core i7-4960X Extreme Edition – and will be offered on the STEIGER DYNAMICS LEET™ Reference line of Gaming Home Theater PCs, allowing users to choose the processor that fits their needs and their budget. All three processor options are unlocked and ready for overclocking. Additionally, the performance on these processors offers a combination of smart features including Intel Turbo Boost Technology 2.0 which provides the extra speed for demanding applications, Intel Hyper-Threading Technology which ensures smooth operation and multi-tasking, while the Intel Core i7 processor Extreme Edition delivers unmatched performance in all respects.

Creative professionals especially will be able to capitalize on the extra power that the six-core processor provides the STEIGER DYNAMICS LEET™ Reference. The Intel Core i7 processor Extreme Edition is the ideal engine for users who require unequalled performance for limitless digital creativity, especially regarding video encoding and 3D rendering on large format UltraHD 4K TVs. The LEET™ Reference, containing the Intel Core i7-4690X processor Extreme Edition’s extra power will make working more efficient, thus maximizing user productivity.

“This latest generation of Intel Core i7 processors provides the highest overclocking potential among the current Intel lineup and the six-core processors provide the strongest processing performance with any PC, giving the most power and the best performance for gamers and professionals alike,” said Martin Gossner, CTO of STEIGER DYNAMICS.

Consumers can purchase the LEET™ Reference Gaming Home Theater PC at STEIGER DYNAMICS’ website: <https://www.steigerdynamics.com/shop-leet-systems.aspx> or order by phone at (1-855-915-9000).
